Branson's Virgin Care awarded NHS contract

DJ Stevie on track for music success

A welcome from Santa's helpers to the Concourse Christmas Lights switch on.

Residents turn out in force for festive lights switch on

IT'S beginning to look a lot like Christmas after Skelmersdale residents turned out in force to welcome the festive shopping season and watch the Christmas lights being switched on at the Concourse.

The event, on Friday, November 18, saw Father Christmas arrive on his sleigh, pulled by real reindeer, while entertainment and spot prizes for shoppers also helped to get everyone in the festive spirit.

The Mayor of West Lancashire Council, Councillor Liz Savage, joined Santa and West Lancashire town crier Don Evans to officially switch on the lights and start the festivities.

POLICE CUTS THREATEN PUBLIC EVENTS

... even Remembrance Sunday parades in town could be at risk, warns councillor

Report by Henry James

A SKELMERSDALE Councillor has expressed his 'deep concern' at the further slashing of police officer numbers in West Lancashire, claiming it could lead to public events being cancelled.

Cllr Terry Devine said the force is continuing to shrink at an alarming rate and he believes there is 'clearly less visible policing on the streets.'

Now he is even concerned for the future of events such as Remembrance Sunday parades.

The councillor, who is West Lancashire Borough Council's Armed Forces Champion, believes cuts to policing numbers is having a detrimental impact on communities and on the ability to carry out public events.

Councillor Terry Devine

He said: "As Lancashire Constabulary is continuing to pass on the financial cuts of this Government to local policing numbers, I am concerned for the future of our Remembrance Sunday parades, and other community events.

"Already we are seeing re-routing of the Remembrance Sunday marches as a result of the inability of police to close off the roads due to their lack of numbers, and I would worry for the future of our parades and commemorating our fallen heroes.

"This is something I, and many across West Lancashire, feel strongly about, that those who have fought and died for our freedoms should be commemorated appropriately.

"I will be writing to the Policing Minister to request that increased funding is provided to Lancashire and other Constabularies to ensure there can be adequate police resource at our public events." Continued inside

Campaign launched to tackle domestic violence in borough

by Danielle Thompson

A NEW campaign has been launched to help combat domestic violence after a woman was killed by her partner shortly after they moved away from West Lancs.

The initiative is being led by the Liberty Centre - a women's refuge organisation based in the borough - and West Lancashire Community Safety Partnership at Briars Hall Hotel in Lathom.

The launch will take place on Friday, (November 25).

West Lancashire Borough Council, The West Lancs Liberty Centre and Edge Hill Students Union have put together a new social media campaign entitled 'Make the call. Don't be a bystander.'

The Community Safety Partnership were asked to construct a campaign that encouraged people who were aware that a friend, relative or colleague was suffering from domestic violence, to get support, advice or assistance.

Officers approached the Liberty Centre as a partner to be involved in the campaign.

The recommendation followed a recent domestic homicide review of a woman who was murdered by her partner following an argument, only shortly after they had moved out of West Lancashire.

The campaign hopes to tackle domestic abuse

Borough Councillor Kevin Wright

The review involved numerous West Lancashire organisations due to the couple's origins.

At the launch event, officers from Lancashire Constabulary, the Council and the Liberty Centre will discuss domestic abuse, a parent's view of domestic homicide and the Don't be a Bystander campaign. The Liberty Centre will officially launch the campaign via twitter at noon.

Borough Councillor Kevin Wright, portfolio holder for health and community safety, said "The circumstances behind this campaign are truly tragic, but I am hugely impressed by the campaign and the potential audience for it is massive.

"My thanks go to all the people involved in this innovative campaign, which I am sure will help people get the right advice and support at a difficult time."

The Liberty Centre is a specialist centre for adults who have autism and associated challenging behaviour. For more information, visit dvsswl.org.uk/or follow @libertycentre or @westlancsbc on Twitter.

Countdown to Christmas begins at the Concourse

Also joining the VIP guests was Rosalie Harrison, aged three, whose grandmother Val Harrison won a competition to be part of the event.

Gary Mitchell, manager of the Concourse Shopping Centre, said: "We always look forward to the start of the festive season and this was yet another fantastic Christmas launch.

"It was great to see so many people of all ages coming out to welcome Santa and to enjoy the superb entertainment."

The entertainment included: The Red Hot Santa Band, who played its unique renditions of seasonal tunes, the Dancing Elves, Rockin' Robins, The Nutkins, and The Flying Buttresses. Dancers from Becki Lou's Dance Studio also performed around the Christmas tree.

Santa's Grotto is located in the atrium at the front of the centre and will be open Thursday-Saturday 10am-5pm, Sundays 11am-4pm, and every day, 10am – 5pm from December 15 until 3pm Christmas Eve – except Sundays, when opening times remain 11am-4pm.

Flea market will help pupils get back to nature

KINGSBURY School Parents and Teacher Association are holding a Christmas Flea Market in a bid to raise money to buy a special nature education programme for the school.

The event will be held at the school on School Lane, Skelmersdale, on Saturday, December 3, between 11am and 3pm, in a bid to help young people with learning difficulties

The group are aiming to raise £3,500 to buy the Forest Schools Outdoor programme, which would enable the pupils to experience nature-based learning.

There are 30 stalls booked in for the event, including people selling cosmetics, decorations, winter plants, tea and coffee, food, and children's books.

There will also be craft stalls, old and new stalls, a tombola and raffles.

Nikki Clark, chair of Kingsbury School charitable fund said: "We have already raised £1,600 of our target and are hoping that the Flea market will make a big dent in what we are trying to raise. The aim is to raise as much money as possible.

"We hope we can be as successful as the one that is held in Parbold.

"The Forest School Outdoor programme will benefit all our children, who have complex special needs, and autism. It will get them out in the environment and make them learn from nature."

Public events in town at risk, warns councillor

Insp June Chessell, of Skelmersdale Police, said: "We are committed to providing a police service that secures and maintains high levels of satisfaction and confidence.

"If the public ring us, we will answer quickly and respond quickly, we will investigate crime proportionately, prioritising those crimes that have the greatest impact on the victim.

"We are working hard to keep people safe and feeling safe, particularly the most vulnerable.

"We will continue to support events including Remembrance Sunday and provide a proportionate level of police support."

Medal honour for West Lancs war hero

Albert, 92, is awarded France's highest accolade

Report by Danielle Thompson

A SECOND World War veteran from West Lancs whose mission was to explode enemy mines on the beaches of Normandy during the D-Day landings, has been given a prestigious award for his bravery.

Albert Harrison, 92, was presented with the the Legion of Honour for his bravery while serving in the Royal Navy.

The French government announced two years ago that it wanted to recognise selfless acts of heroism displayed by all surviving veterans of the Normandy landings, and of the wider campaigns to liberate France in 1944, by awarding them with the Legion d'Honneur, the highest decoration in France.

This recognition includes troops who landed on and fought their way up the beaches 70 years ago and Royal Navy and Royal Air Force personnel who operated in support of the landings.

The father of two was a member of a minesweeping crew during the D-Day landing operations on Tuesday, June 6 1944, the largest seaborne invasion in history.

Albert told the Champion: "I worked on a flotilla, a set of 12 boats that all worked together. I was on a landing craft and we we loaded 24 huge bombs, dropping them into a carrier which had a handle on one side which we wound up at the end to fire them all off at once, to land in a pattern on the beach.

"We could see the rockets landing in the water and exploding, triggering the mines that were hidden on the sea bed, to clear a path for the troops, who then went up the beach.

"The weather was horrific, so rough, that our landing craft started to sink, but we made sure that all of the bombs were launched. We never knew what was going to happen to us – despite all the preparation and training, there was always uncertainty."

Albert, who lives inOrmskirk, is also a grandfather of two. He was born in Burscough in 1923 and started work when he was 14. He signed up to the Navy when he was17 years old and completed just 12 weeks of training in Pwllheli in Wales before starting work on landing craft and troop carriers, including taking troops around South African and back up through the Red Sea.

After serving in the war, he returned to Ormskirk and met and married his wife Marie, a former munitions worker, at St Anne's Church in Ormskirk in September 1949 – they recently celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary.

He returned to work at the council on their road maintenance department and was awarded the British Empire Medal (BEM) for his services to the council before he retired in 1988.

Albert was sent his medal, officially known as the Insignia of the Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur, by the French Honorary Consul last week, They also wrote to tell him that they have now appointed him to the rank of Chevalier in the Ordre Nationale de la Legion d'Honneur.

But despite his awards, Albert has remained very modest. He joked: "... I'm still waiting for my Blue Peter badge!"

MP brands local NHS services 'a shambles' during Westminster debate

Report by Ollie Cowan

'There would be revolution on the streets if A&E downgrading plans go ahead' warns Pugh

MP John Pugh has branded local NHS decision making in Southport and the surrounding areas as a shambles.

Mr Pugh, who led a debate in the House of Commons on NHS services in Southport, Merseyside and Cheshire on Tuesday, was speaking out after it was revealed there may be future plans to downgrade A&E services in Southport.

The debate was also attended by other local MPs, including Rosie Cooper MP from West Lancashire.

Originally the debate was sparked as a result of the ongoing crises in Southport hospital, which has recently seen the Accident and Emergency services come under risk with the publishing of the new Sustainability and Transformation Plans.

The STPs were written behind closed doors, and ownership of them is unknown and features no democratic accountability.

Prior to the debate Mr Pugh warned 'there would be revolution on the streets' if any downgrading plans were to go ahead.

Mr Pugh said: "I am a veteran of such carrying-ons. Southport has a strong case to keep it's A&E, in part due to the large elderly population of the town.

"Without a 24/7 A&E service in Southport there would be a lot of people suffering a longer and more anxious journey, and that during busy times such as the flower show and air show, it could lead to disaster.

"I want to make it clear to all and sundry that any attempted closure of our A&E would lead to revolution on the streets, be clinically stupid and indefensible in what I fear is a 'behind the scenes' stitch up followed by some phoney consultation when a downgrading plan is in place.

"There's no transparency in these matters and more sharp politics and less accountability at the top of the NHS than ever you will get at Westminster.

"Southport is a town with a large elderly population, a reducing number of permanent GPs but if it suits local NHS bosses and the current government it could still see a sharp reduction in services.

"It would not be sensible or fair to let us take the brunt of NHS cuts and savings but it could happen.

"We are especially vulnerable as the management of the hospital has been in turmoil for over a year and we lack a voice at the closed NHS meetings when the real decisions get made."

A petition has recently been set up to oppose any downgrading of Southport Hospital A&E services. See picture above

Virgin Care to take over NHS community health services

Report by Henry James

NHS West Lancashire Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) has announced that Virgin Care have won the bid to provide community health services and urgent care services in the borough.

Billionaire Richard Branson's healthcare group will take over the services from April 1, 2017 with local health chiefs stressing that all services commissioned with the private company will continue to be delivered as part of the NHS and will remain free at the point of contact.

The contract to run community services is estimated to be worth in the region of £9m per annum, and the contract for urgent care services is about £4m per annum, say health chiefs.

But the decision to choose a private health company has been met with anger by West Lancashire MP Rosie Cooper.

Slamming the move, the Labour MP told the Champion that the choice is a 'slap in the face' to NHS providers and to residents who had opposed a private health company running NHS services.

However, bosses at the local healthcare commissioner say they have "evaluated and moderated" the bids received and followed a "stringent" procurement process which adheres to national guidance to select the successful provider.

The existing provider of these services is Southport & Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust.

The CCG's vision for joined up care, known as Building for the Future, aims, they claim, to help everyone, especially the older population and those living with long-term conditions.

Health chiefs say the scheme 'wants people to be more in control of their own health, have better access to health services and receive co-ordinated support tailored to their own personal needs.'

Urgent care services in West Lancashire include: walk-in centres and GP out of hours services. Community health services include district nurses. community matrons and stroke and cardiac rehabilitation.

Claire Heneghan, chief nurse of NHS West Lancashire CCG, said: "This process is about transforming care locally and is a major positive step forward for West Lancashire.

"The aim is to develop and enhance community and local walk-in and out of hour's services, helping to prevent avoidable acute hospital attendance, relieving pressure on such a vital resource.

"We will continue to enable and support the local hospital to do what it does best, in addressing the needs of those residents who need acute and specialist care. Our local hospital will continue to be a major part of local health services and will remain integral as we move towards achieving our vision for joined up care."

Dr John Caine, chair of the CCG, added: "Through the bid Virgin Care demonstrated a true understanding of our vision and we are assured it will deliver a quality service for our local community within this new model of care.

"Virgin Care will now work closely with the existing provider Southport & Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust in the run up to delivering the services from April 1 2017. The CCG and Virgin Care will also be talking to the local community about their plans and welcoming views during this next phase of the process.

"Although this is a change in the provider, patients will still receive safe, quality treatment and care during this period of transition."

A spokesperson for Virgin Care said: "We look forward to continuing our engagement with the local community so we can provide a high quality service that has been shaped by the people who use it."

But MP Rosie Cooper believes the decision is "a slap in the face" to local NHS providers and to the strength of residents' opposition to the privatisation of their health services.

The MP said: "This entire process has been conducted without sufficient openness and transparency and without any obvious consideration to the future of Southport and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust.

"The CCG have ignored the thousands of West Lancashire residents who expressed their opposition to a private company running frontline health services by signing petitions, campaigning and asking questions.

"Now the contract has been awarded it is time for the CCG to open the books on this entire process.

"If people are failed because of West Lancashire CCG's decision then I will expect those responsible for this awful decision to be offering their resignations. My message to the people of West Lancashire is simple. If these services fail you, let me know!"

'Virgin Care demonstrated a true understanding of our vision'

Claire Heneghan, chief nurse of NHS West Lancs CCG

Rosie Cooper West Lancs MP

VIRGIN Care's mission statement on their website reads: "We provide frontline NHS and social care services across the country.

"Since 2006 we've treated more than seven million people providing care good enough for our families.

"Our aim is to make a real difference to people's lives by offering NHS and social care services that are:

•Free at the point of need
•Better than what went before
•A great experience for everyone
•Better value for the public and the NHS."

The collision on the M6

Vehicles involved in motorway collisions

POLICE were called to a road traffic collision close to junction 26 of the M6 on Friday, November 18.

The incident involved a white van and a black car at about 11.15am by the eastbound slip road exit. Weather conditions were said to be 'hazardous' at the time.

No injuries were reported.

Meanwhile, police were called to another road traffic collision at about 12.50pm on Thursday, November 17 on the M58.

A red Citroen Feel and a black Nissan Qashqai had been involved in a collision.

The incident happened on the eastbound stretch between Skelmersdale and Wigan.

Stevie Best - success on the dance floor

DJ Stevie is on track for success

HE is an electrical engineer at SCA Hygiene in Skelmersdale during the day, but in his spare time Stevie Best is also a DJ and he has just released a record, which topped a dance chart on an online music store.

It took Stevie, 24, of Firswood Road, Lathom, just a matter of weeks to make his first single called Get Back Home.

The tune was released through Belgium's Phraser records and was available at online outlets and reached number one on the Minimal chart on the Beatport website and number 90 on their overall chart.

Stevie, who went to Our Lady Queen of Peace, plans to release a two track Techno EP in January called Take Me Higher.

He also DJ's at clubs in Liverpool City Centre and has a gig to play music at London's Egg nightclub in London. He commented: "I sent my first single off to Phraser records, and they came back to me to say they wanted to release it.

"I have had good feedback to my Techno EP, and hopefully it will lead onto other things."

His dad. Steve, said: "Stevie spends every spare minute making his music.

"He is very dedicated and talented. Since he received the number one, it has made him even more determined to succeed with his music.

"He wants to travel the world and has recently been to Ibiza. We are delighted of his success so far."

It takes Stevie a couple of weeks to make a record and he uses synthesisers and midi keyboards as well as a music programme called Ableton.

He has financed the music equipment himself.

Town's motorists urged to 'Make the Brake Pledge'

Report by Henry James

THIS week is national Road Safety Week (November 21-27), and drivers, cyclists and pedestrians are being urged by a Skelmersdale opticians to make a pledge to stay sharp on the roads and help prevent the 2,900 casualties caused each year due to poor driver vision.

With sight-related accidents also costing £33m annually Specsavers, official partner of Road Safety Week, is calling for the quarter of drivers that have not had an eye examination in two years to have their eyes checked.

The Road Safety Week 2016 theme, 'Make the Brake Pledge' is about people all over the country understanding six key things they can do to protect themselves and the people around them, and reduce emissions and pollution from vehicles.

The six Brake Pledge points are: Slow, Sober, Secure, Silent, Sharp and Sustainable.

Sully Patel, store director of Specsavers Skelmersdale explained: "I was shocked to learn that poor driver vision alone leads to 55 casualties every single week and costs an estimated £33m.

"A regular eye examination is a legal requirement for drivers but it is your personal responsibility to ensure you are having your eyes tested frequently."

Sully added: "We'd urge every road user to make a Brake pledge to make our roads safer. Your pledge can be as simple as booking an eye examination, carrying a spare pair of specs in your car, not driving when tired, or even to drive less and use public transport more."

Gary Rae, director of communications and campaigns from Brake said: "I'd like to thank Specsavers in Skelmersdale for their ongoing support for Road Safety Week. Our theme this year is action-orientated and anyone can make and share the Brake Pledge.

"Our survey shows that drivers are aware of the threat of risky behaviour by other drivers, but are inclined to play down the risks involved with their own behaviour. Everyone who drives has to step up and take responsibility. If every driver vowed to Make the Break Pledge, then our roads would be safer places for everyone.

"Road Safety Week presents an opportunity for drivers to stop and think about their own behaviour and for everyone to share the Pledge and raise awareness of casualties and pollution."

In 1989, Ashcroft formed the band, initially called simply Verve while at Up Holland High School with classmates Simon Jones, Simon Tong and Peter Salisbury. Nick McCabe joined later.

Youth group take part in remembrance events

SKELMERSDALE Action for Youth has been involved in a number of remembrance events in the town.

SAY leader Alan Lewis, Harry McKenzie, and Alan Moore would like to thank members of the public for their support over the last two weeks and for their contributions to the Poppy Appeal, which has helped the Royal British Legion.

Members from the group have held a Remembrance Dinner at the Evermoor Hub in Digmoor. Margaret Highton and helpers cooked a three course meal for veterans and family and friends to honour the fallen heroes of both world wars and other conflicts.

The mayor of West Lancashire Borough Council, councillor Liz Savage opened the dinner along with Alan Lewis MBE.

Alan said: "This is the time of year where all veterans come together to remember all those who gave all in both world wars and more recent conflicts in Northern Ireland, the Falklands, and Afghanistan.

"Many veterans have lost close colleagues and friends during conflicts. This was a night to build on new friendships.

"Also we had the local neighbourhood team from Lancashire police drop in and attend the event.

"Events like these help to make a stronger community spirit between different people."

£40k cannabis haul confiscated after raid

POLICE have found about £40,000 of cannabis drying out in a room following a raid on an address in Brierfield, Digmoor on Monday afternoon.

A male at the address was arrested and is currently on bail pending further enquiries.

All the seized items were brought back to the station to be bagged up as exhibits.

A spokesman for Skelmersdale Police said on their Facebook page: "Our thanks to the public for providing us the information, which allowed us to act quickly to take these drugs off the streets. This is definitely a case of the public helping the police to protect the public.

"Your local officers are on the streets to pass any thing that you may be concerned about, or you can even do it completely anonymously by contacting Crimestoppers online, or by ringing 0800 555 111."

Memorial service to honour 'forgotten' soldier from Lathom

A SERVICE of commemoration will be held for a soldier from Lathom who died in the Second World War but whose name was missed off from the village's war memorials.

Private Sydney Turner, who lived on Square Lane and served in the Argyll Sutherland Highlanders Battalion died on November, 28, 1942 in Tunisia.

He was reported missing in November 1942 and as his body was never recovered, his name was recorded on the Medej el Bab Memorial in Tunisia in North Africa– but it was not commemorated on the Burscough and Lathom war memorials nor within the church that his family are buried at, St John the Baptist in Burscough.

On Monday, November 28 at 2pm, a service of commemoration will be conducted by Reverend Ian Jones, the curate at St John the Baptist – on the 74th anniversary of his death. The West Lancs Mayor, Councillor Liz Savage, will be attending the event.

Local historian Richard Houghton explained that earlier this year Private Turner's family's broken gravestone was found in the graveyard, bearing the names of his mother Ruth Turner, who died in 1928 and his father, David, who died in 1936 – meaning that he only outlived his own parents by six years.

"His name was also added, stating 'Their loving son Sydney A.S.H missing in Africa 1942. He was survived by his two sisters, Hilda Jane Turner and Jessie Turner.'"

The War Memorial which could soon have a new name added to it

Report by Danielle Thompson

Richard added: "Sydney Turner enlisted in the Kings Own Royal Lancaster Regt confirmed by his service number and is likely to have transferred to the Argyll Sunderland Highlanders Battalion following the loss of many of the 51st Highland Division when they were forced to surrender their arms to General Rommel.

"Research has revealed that he was reported missing on November 28, 1942 at a fierce action at a location known as Bald Hill and Green Hill en route to an objective known as Mateur to seize a crossroads held by German forces.

"This battle was eventually to be known as the Battle of Longstop (Hill), which has taken on significant historical status."

A representation has been made to add Private Turner's name to the Lathom and Burscough war memorial.

Engineer Alan tries his hand at crime thrillers

Report by Henry James

A DESIGN engineer from Skelmersdale has ticked an item off his bucket list and had his first book published.

Alan Read, from Whitemoss Road, has penned a crime thriller, which can now be bought in paperback or a digital format.

The book is called Killing Time Killing and is not for the faint-hearted. It is about a serial killer with a twist at the end, although Alan is reluctant to say any more without giving away the story-line.

Alan, 58, said: "I decided to write the book after coming up with an idea for a story and thinking about it during the many hours I spend in motorway traffic jams during my business travels.

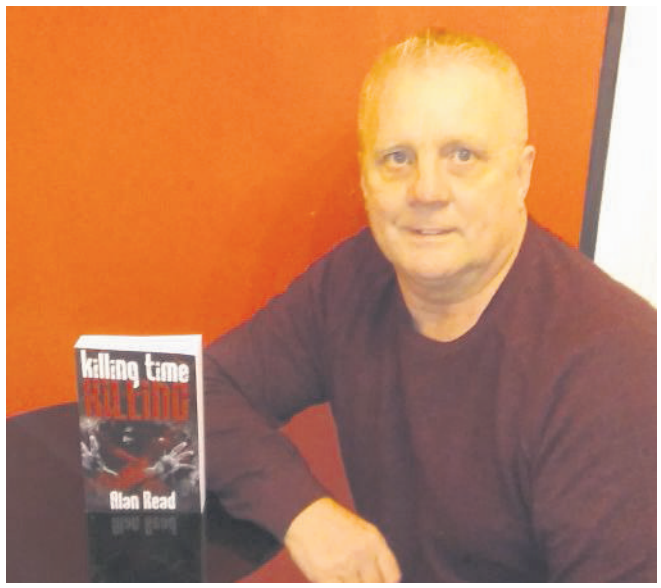
"I started the book in 2005 and it took about six months to write the first draft.

"After being proof read by a friend I sent it to a publishing company in the USA who were willing to publish for a fee.

"I became sceptical about their quality control after reading reviews about them on the internet so I sent it off to an independent reviewer.

"Although the reviewer gave it a good report, I decided not to proceed due to financial restrictions and basically condemned the book to the loft.

"In around 2009, Amazon introduced Kindle which made the possibility of self publishing a simpler prospect.



Alan Read proudly shows off his published novel

"After digging the book out of the loft and reading I became unsure about the graphic content but after checking with a few avid readers, I checked out a couple of recommended authors and realised my imagination wasn't as weird as I feared. I then went through a period of editing re-writing and, to be honest, teaching myself to improve my grammar via the internet.

"However I was reluctant to 'waste' money on a pipe dream and pay for professional editing, and was still unsure of the quality of writing, I consigned the book to the loft again.

"Finally, in 2016 after probably boring my family and friends to death about 'my book' I decided it was now or never. I re edited the book and changed a few descriptions of events because I had taken so long that world events had changed.

"I asked a qualified good friend to proof read and after his approval decided to take the plunge. I still, however, was slightly unsure so decided to use professional help and pay for a publisher albeit at much less expense. The publishers were very enthusiastic and convinced me that it really was good enough to go public."

Alan has three other books rolling about in his head – one is a sequel to Killing Time Killing.

Men-Aces side aim for top accolade

THE SKELMERSDALE Men-Aces are in line to win a trophy at the Lancashire Sports Awards.

Hosted by Lancashire Sport Partnership, an organisation which works to improve health and wellbeing across the county by encouraging active lifestyles, the awards celebrate sporting achievement and recognise individuals' dedication and contribution to sport and community activity.

The Men-Aces are in the service to disability section and will be up against nominees from Blackburn with Darwen, Chorley, Fylde, Hyndburn, Preston, South Ribble and Wrye.

This award is given to an individual, administrator, coach or official who has made a highly significant voluntary contribution to disability sport.

Skem Men-Aces aims to give new experiences through football to each and every one of the lads, whether it be travelling in the minibus and meeting new teams, making new friends, to visiting radio stations, factory, playing against governing bodies. Officials at the Skem Men-Aces feel every lad has progressed and achieved so much. They add that a sense of pride and belonging can be seen.

The event, supported by a number of organisations, including headline sponsor Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust, will take place on Friday, November 25.

It is expected to attract more than 400 guests, including local authority partners and the who's who of the county's sporting sector.

The Skem Men-aces

Adrian Leather, chief executive of Lancashire Sport Partnership (LSP), said: "These awards exist to recognise and reward the individuals, clubs and organisations which work tirelessly to ensure that people can both get involved and participate in sport.

"There's a lot to be said for being more active because it's great for the body and mind and can also offer an active social life, so we're looking forward to showcasing the achievements of Lancashire's sporting greats on the night."

Ormskirk Bus Station

Plans stepped up to redevelop town's bus station

Report by Danielle Thompson

THE first steps have been taken to redevelop Ormskirk Bus Station.

West Lancashire Borough Council, who own the bus station and car park, think the site has potential to contribute to the regeneration of the town centre.

It is recognised that the site is currently unattractive as a key gateway for visitors to Ormskirk town centre, and that there is a need provide an improved bus station and enhanced pedestrian links between the town centre, the bus and railway stations.

It is recognised through the Town Centre strategy that the whole site is in need of improvement.

Lancashire County Council has committed some funding to upgrade the bus station element of any scheme which has enabled the borough council to review the opportunity to redevelop the site.

It is hoped to deliver a mixed use scheme that will contribute appropriately to the town centre, including a modern, fit for purpose, bus station facility.

The project is known as the 'Moor Street Gateway.'

Alongside the redevelopment of the bus station site, the council will also be looking to work with Network Rail to improve the pedestrian link to the train station. Earlier this month, the council's cabinet agreed that steps be taken to secure a development partner to make proposals to the Borough Council for consideration. Uses should complement a new bus station and the wider area including commercial, cultural, residential, employment and leisure uses.

Councillor Ian Moran, West Lancashire Borough Council Leader and Portfolio Holder for Economic Regeneration, said: "I am delighted that progress is being made in this very important scheme for Ormskirk. The finished project will have a hugely positive impact on the town centre."

Any future scheme would need to comply with the policies set out in the West Lancashire Local Plan and contribute positively to the town centre. The open nature of a procurement process enables a variety of schemes to be put forward for consideration and for the most appropriate scheme for the site and Ormskirk to be achieved.

The procurement exercise has now been started but will take several months to complete.

Residents have their say on new kids playground

How the Mere Avenue playground looks now

BURSCOUGH residents are being invited to check out the designs and give feedback on a new play area at Mere Avenue Playground.

Report by Danielle Thompson

Burscough Parish Council are holding the viewing event at The Grove Youth and Community Centre on Station Approach from 2-6pm on Wednesday, November 30 and are inviting local families to help them to choose the best design for new play equipment.

Contractors who wish to be considered for the work have provided display materials for their proposed designs, and as part of the tender process, members of the public are invited to comment.

Residents were initially consulted on the project to upgrade the play area almost 12 months ago, and the comments they put forward were included in the tender brief.

The playground's current play equipment, which although kept in good repair, is costing more and more each year to maintain due to its age and is ready for replacement. They will replace it with a design which is easy and low-cost to maintain,helping to make it more affordable in the future.

Councilor Julie Atherton, chair of Capital Projects at the Parish Council, said: "We hope that as many residents as possible can attend the event. We are keen to get your feedback so that we know we are updating the park to meet the needs of our children. We are investing in the park to ensure our children continue to feel safe whilst having fun.

"It is also a green space for adults to sit and enjoy a lovely oasis in a busy world. Please tell us what you think of the new designs. The funding we have secured for this project must be used wisely. Let's get it right with your help!"

Students at the Tate!

EDGE Hill University students are being given the chance to work alongside leading artists as part of a new project at Tate Liverpool.

The new programme brings together international artists alongside partner organisations and members of the public, and Edge Hill is one of the Founding Associate organisations working with Tate Liverpool on the project.

Edge Hill's animation students will launch the Tate Exchange Liverpool programme at the gallery on Saturday, November 26. Inspired by the gallery's autumn Yves Klein exhibition and the artist's interest in Judo, their work will see the movements of live judo artists captured on camera. In an adjacent workshop, students will turn these images into animations to be projected within the space.

On Saturday, December 3, Edge Hill's Creative Writing department brings three leading international poets, Niall McDevitt (Ireland), Maung Day (Myanmar) and Edge Hill Creative Writing lecturer Dr James Byrne (England) to the Tate Exchange Liverpool space. They will create poetic responses to Tate Liverpool's free display Tracey Emin & William Blake in Focus.

Then on Saturday, December 10, 45 performing arts students will bring al dance performance lasting five hours to the gallery.

Looking ahead to February, artists including Edge Hill Professor Vicky Karkou will take over the space for a week-long programme of new collaborative work and discussions focusing on the exchange of ideas between different creative fields.

Cathy Butterworth, arts manager at Edge Hill University said: "Tate Exchange Liverpool is a fantastic, ground-breaking project and we're delighted that Edge Hill is playing such a significant part in it."

App homes in on council finances

THE West Lancashire element of the council tax bill has risen by 18.9 per cent in real terms since 1996-97.

That's according to the TaxPayers' Alliance 2016 report which can be found on the pressure group's new free app.

It also shows borough councillors were paid a basic allowance of £4,842 and the leader received an additional £12,105 in 2014-15.

The cost to the council of paying the allowances was £324,854 and the cost of paying councillors, including their expenses was £329,201.

People who download the app will also be able to find out that between 2013 and 2015, West Lancashire paid out £103,659 in compensation costs to various parties.

The app has been designed by the TaxPayers Alliance to give people more clarity over council finances, and also helps them find out what the council owns, even revealing such things as works of art owned by local authorities, although in the case of West Lancs, the council doesn't appear to have any, at least according to the app.

The app even reveals that West Lancashire gave trade unions the use of 220 square foot of office space in 2014, the most-up-to-date year.

The TaxPayers' Alliance have released a new mobile App

John O'Connell, chief executive of the TaxPayers' Alliance has said that anyone with a smartphone or tablet can now examine the performance of their own council and decide for themselves if councils are delivering value for taxpayers' hard earned money."

I'll be returning my green bin!

WITH regard to the council's decision to charge tenants £30 for emptying the green compost bins next year.

I was surprised and embarrassed when these councillors were asked, what plans will be in place with regard to the collection of the £30. No reply!

They were asked if the garden waste they collect and passed on to recycling firms, who turn it into compost, paid them for it, still no reply

As a retired gardener by profession, and still a keen gardener I will return the green wheelie bin to the council, make a one off payment for a compost bin and make it my own!

People who decided this should think about the economical repercussions of this decision - the bins will be returned and tenants will just dump any garden waste on the nearest open land.

Repeat prescriptions worry: message is 'phone your doctors surgery and ask for help...'

The Champion printed an article from the West Lancs Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) a couple of weeks ago about the new government scheme for saving money on the NHS bill for drugs which is being trialled in West Lancs.

The proposed plans aim to change how people get their prescriptions for much-needed repeat medications, and in the process to cut out 'waste'.

Basically, residents who need repeat prescriptions are being told they can no longer get these directly through their local chemist, and instead will now have to travel to the doctors' surgery each time unless they can deal with this on-line.

After hearing concerns of residents who would struggle to get to the doctor's surgery and were not able either to re-order their medication on-line, I contacted the local CCG.

The CCG responded with assurances that they would be working with local chemists to identify and support those 'vulnerable' patients.

However, I'm still hearing of people struggling and chemists are saying there are potentially many patients in this situation.

So I have checked with the CCG again and I am writing to alert your readers to the present comments from them: firstly that they will be using their computer system to alert them to any patients who have failed to order a repeat prescription they normally take, and secondly that doctor's surgeries will step in to help those who cannot move to the new system.

So it seems that the message at the moment to those concerned about how they will get their repeat prescriptions is to phone the doctors' surgery and ask for help.

Why can't the council keep a true record of student homes?

WHY is the council letting so many student HMOS in Ormskirk – especially when we are trying to save money, and for everyone they allow we receive no council tax?

At the moment we are trying to save money and charge residents an extra £30 for green bins.

So for every student-let HMO we receive less council tax to pay for services!

After my first letter to query this, my reply was that the council get nothing out of this. Then after a second letter asking for a breakdown of how many student HMOs there are in the town and why our money is being wasted, the reply I got from John Harrison Director of Development and Regeneration has now informed me the council keep a data base of HMOs but does not distinguish between student use and non student use.

Therefore, the council do not even know how much money the taxpayer is losing for every HMO in Ormskirk!

He also goes on to say that the green bin charge would be implemented to all households without exemption, therefore the council would only collect green bins who have opted 'in' and paid the charge!

I cannot believe in this time of austerity that the council are not keeping a record of student HMOs and still allowing many more (although at a percentage!) which is losing this area council tax amounting to a lot of money.

This has to be bad management - surely this is the first thing you would stop to make us all money? I'm sure it would be, if it was coming out of their own wallets!

What is happening to our market town?

IT has come to light that greedy landlords have increased the business rates in Ormskirk and this has now forced a leading public charity, Age UK, to have no other option but to close down in the coming weeks.

This is a charity shop working hard with volunteers to help raise funds for our older people in society, many vulnerable and alone

Why is this happening to our market town here in Ormskirk?

Perhaps it is to make way for more late night bars who can cash in again from students who are flooding into the town?

Who knows, but clearly rent or tax rate rises is something the local council should be monitoring on behalf of the Community.

Do charities count for so little, or does charity begin at home West Lancashire Borough Council?

Primary concern of council should be permanent residents of town

I must write in response to last week's heartbreaking letter from Ruth Beaumont.

I would love to hear a response from either the council or the police, (preferably both) to certain issues.

What, I wonder, is the benefit to the council to allow so much of the town's housing to become HMO's.

Does the fee for the licence to convert these premises outweigh, or even compensate for the loss of Council Tax that they would otherwise attract.

Do any businesses, other that half a dozen bars, a couple of major supermarkets and bargain shops, or charity shops, actually benefit from the term-time influx of our transient student residents?

Have the parking laws been waived, especially in and around Ruff Lane, to allow dozens of vehicles to park on double yellow lines, or even on the pavements and pedestrian areas?

Does nobody care that the sons and daughters of long term residents of Ormskirk, have little or no chance of getting onto the property ladder, because so many of the town's small terraced houses have been converted into student accommodation?

I realise that these issues have all been raised before on this page, but it still staggers me that nothing seems to have been done to alleviate the problems faced by so many residents.

I would have thought that the primary concern of the council, should be to the permanent residents of the town, who actually pay for the services provided.

I daresay, that Edge Hill University make a contribution in the form of rates etc. but it seems to many residents, that the university has actually bought the town!

Information wanted on history of Water Tower

I am collecting information on the history of the Tower Hill allotments in Ormskirk, which are situated next to the Water Tower.

I believe that the allotments may have been there from about 1945.

If anyone has any information about how the allotments came to be there or any stories, photos or documents relating to the early days of the Water Tower site I would love to hear from you at towerhillallotment@gmail.com.

‘Quit Squad’ warn of smoking dangers

A SPECIAL ‘Quit Squad’ is calling on people who smoke in West Lancashire to give up the vice.

Report by Henry James

The anti smoking health team from Lancashire NHS services want residents to understand that by smoking, they are significantly increasing their risk of developing chronic pulminary disease (COPD)

COPD defines a number of lung conditions that make it difficult to empty air out of the lungs due to the narrow airways.

COPD often develops when the lungs are exposed to cigarette smoke, with people over 35 who smoke the most likely to develop the disease.

The Quit Squad, which is delivered by Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust and funded by Lancashire County Council, is encouraging people who smoke, to contact the service in order to get the best benefit from free specialist advice.

People are up to four times more likely to quit with the help of stop smoking aids combined with specialist help and support.

Helen Hatcher from the Quit Squad at Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust said: “COPD is estimated to be the third leading cause of death in the world by 2030, with smoking the main risk factor associated to the condition.

“We recognise that many people do not know what COPD is and part of the service we provide is to inform our service users of the risks and highlight the health costs of smoking.

“Quit Squad have age testing monitors which we use with service users who have potentially developed COPD.

The monitors we use do not diagnose COPD however do indicate the need for further testing resulting in early diagnosis or reassuring the client that at the present time COPD has not developed.

“We are really looking forward to World COPD Day and want to use it as an opportunity for health professionals within our service to engage with people and positively influence their choices.

As an advisor, it is such a reward when someone successfully quits smoking. It is a great feeling to know we have helped someone on to the pathway to better quality of life.”

Some of the symptoms of COPD include:

- Shortness of breath through everyday tasks
- A long lasting cough
- Producing more sputum or phlegm than usual
- Wheezing in cold weather

If you have symptoms of COPD or would like more information on quitting please telephone 0800 3286297, visit www.quit-squad.nhs.uk, or follow the Quit Squad on Twitter @LancashireCare #QuitSquad.

People who wish to refer themselves to the Quit Squad can do so by telephoning the above number or completing the Quit Squad Self-Referral Form that can be found on the home page of the Quit Squad website.

The Quit Squad offers drop-in clinics one-to-one sessions and group sessions in the community.

Wharf’s festive lights set for big switch on

BURSCOUGH residents and visitors to the village, can enjoy the Christmas lights switch on at the Wharf, this Friday (November 25).

By Danielle Thompson

The festive fun will begin in the courtyard at 4.45pm with musical entertainment from the Ukes at the Wharf and local duo Alex and Livvy Karalius. Throughout the evening visitors will be able to enjoy seasonal street food including a hog roast, crepes, hot-dogs and mulled wine.

For the youngsters there will be live reindeer and the chance to sit in Santa’s sleigh and meet his elves and a free visit to Santa in his grotto on the first floor of the Arts Centre where children can have their pictures taken by resident photographers Fat Badger, and receive a special gift!

Burscough Wharf’s site manager, Ray Eckersley said: “We’re excited about this year’s Christmas fun, we have had many new outlets opening up recently, including a new sweet shop – the Candy Chest, a hair extensions salon – Blush and most recently a new cocktail bar - Jack & Gin, so there’s going to be a great atmosphere.

“The lights will be switched on at 6.30pm by our Christmas fairies so we’re encouraging families to come along and join our festive celebrations.”

Council tenants urged to get more involved in housing issues

Report by Henry James

WEST Lancashire Borough Council tenants are being encouraged by the authority to become involved in housing issues to help improve services.

Council chiefs say the local authority has a strong record of tenant involvement over many years and wants to continue to have tenants involved and hear their views.

It has introduced a new model for tenant involvement, which involves engaging tenants in different ways.

Around 200 tenants are already involved in the 'Your Voice' consultation group, through which they complete surveys, either by post or online about housing and community issues.

Further work is planned to increase this number as the borough council currently provides more than 6,000 homes for tenants.

Feedback exercises with people living in council accommodation through surveys and other measures will be carried out to help review areas for service improvement.

Digital communication will be used to reach a wider range of people, including younger and working tenants.

Staff will look to forge a closer working relationship with ward councillors and parish councillors to help address more local housing issues.

They will also look to attend council and partner organisations activities such as local events at community centres to better engage with tenants.

The Landlord Services Committee (LSC) and Tenant Scrutiny Group (TSG) will continue to operate to help scrutinise housing services to maintain standards and help make them even better.

Councillor Jenny Patterson

Councillor Jenny Patterson, cabinet member for housing and landlord services, said: "Feedback has shown that tenants are not really interested in attending formal meetings, which is something other housing providers have also experienced, so we are concentrating on engaging our tenants by other methods which suit their needs.

"By making it easier for tenants to engage with us and using this information to drive service improvements and changes, it is hoped that tenants will feel more satisfied with services and how they interact with us.

"Our new approach also offers better value for money in terms of our work involving tenants in housing."

Working to deliver housing that meets the needs of local people, including affordable housing, and aiming to be a top performing landlord are important priorities in the borough's Council Plan.

Opticians walk the extra mile for charity

Group raise £2.3k for Cancer Research

By Danielle Thompson

A GROUP of opticians have been celebrating after raising more than £2,300 for a national charity.

A team of 13 from the Specsavers Ormskirk branch took on the challenge and raised an impressive £1,335 for Cancer Research - before their total was boosted by very generous customer, William Thelwell who popped into the store to give them a cheque of an additional £1,000 for their efforts, taking them to a total of £2,335.

The staff walked almost five million steps in one month as part of the national charity's Walk All Over Cancer campaign.

Retail director Natalie Simm said: "We couldn't believe it when our customer William Thelwell came into store to hand us the cheque.

"We are so incredibly grateful for the donation, and all of the support we have received from customers, friends and families. Our target was £500 so we are overwhelmed with the final figure.

"We're really proud of what we have achieved as a community and would like to thank everyone again for getting behind such a great cause."

Specsavers Ormskirk's retail director Natalie Simm and winner Keale Fishwick

They also held a competition in store for the chance to win a pair of designer glasses by guessing the total number of steps they took, charging £1 per entry, which was won by Ormskirk resident Keale Fishwick, eight, who guessed 4,904,780 steps.

Do you want to save money and stay warm this winter?

The Dreaded Winter Switch On

We are all sad to wave the summer goodbye. Gone are the breezy bright days of hanging our washing on the line and opening our windows at night to let in a soft breeze. We now look forward to the cold winter days and nights with our heating on full blast to dry off our clothes and keep our homes snug and warm, but at what cost?

In a typical UK household 60% of our fuel bills are spent on providing heating in our home. As heating accounts for more than half of our energy bills surely there is something we can do to save money on this while still keeping our homes warm and comfortable throughout the harsh winter ahead. We personally are great supporters of the household bill payer who is still refusing to turn that boiler dial on and crank up the thermostat "Do you have a jumper on? No well there you go then," however there comes a time when we can no longer avoid this as winter sets in and the days and nights become bitter. Bring on the dreaded Switch on (no not the Christmas lights the central heating)

Take your boiler out for a spin

Like a car that has been left out for a while in a garage or up a drive, we fire it up and take it for a much needed spin. We give it what it needs, oil, petrol just a bit of TLC. What we never consider is our boilers are exactly the same. After months of being sidelined, they are then fired up and expected to heat our homes efficiently and as cost effectively as possible throughout the winter months.

Maintaining your boiler and heating system annually ensures it is running to its full potential and can avoid any unexpected breakdown costs. Even if you think your boiler is running fine and in good working order, by having an annual service this could avoid costly replacements of parts by ensuring they are maintained and kept in good working order.

Boiler services are usually an inexpensive way to make sure you are getting the most from your heating system and help you save money on your energy bills. Make sure a professional gas engineer listed in the gas safe register services your boiler.

An efficient heating system including heating controls can save you up to £350 per year. If your boiler is old and not running effectively this could be wasting your money and could also potentially become unsafe.

How you can help yourself

- Checking Radiators for cold spots - Cold spots indicate trapped air, trapped air puts extra strain on your heating system preventing your heating from working efficiently. 'Bleeding' your radiators will release this trapped air ridding of any cold spots.
- Check the Pressure - Boilers loose pressure over time, which can cause them to run inefficiently. Check your boilers pressure gauge and top it up (refer to your boilers manual)
- Heating controls - If correctly installed and set up can save you between £75- £155 per year. A good tip to keep in mind is by setting your room thermostat one degree lower can save you £80-£85 per year
- Thermostatic Radiator Valves (or TRV'S) - these are fitted to your radiators and allow you to turn the heat of the radiator up or down. This is an easy way to heat each room accordingly, saving you money.

New flood warning scheme to protect West Lancs nears completion

Cars struggle on the A59 in Ormskirk after Boxing Day floods

MP Rosie Cooper has welcomed the news that an early-warning system for flooding in Ormskirk is nearing completion.

Report by Danielle Thompson

The new system, being created by the Environment Agency will see Hurlston and Sandy Brook in Ormskirk monitored and warnings giving residents time to prepare and protect their homes.

Rain gauges around Ormskirk will monitor rainfall. This will enable the EA to set rainfall alerts. They are also aiming to have monitoring of the brook located on Dyers Lane. Again there will be alerts based on the level of the brook.

Using the monitoring information will enable the EA to develop flood forecasts to provide more accurate and timely warnings. The warnings will also give an indication of possible surface water flooding. The new system will provide greater coverage across Ormskirk and not just be restricted to areas affected by river flooding.

The Environment Agency plan to have a full flood warning system in place from late February.

Ms Cooper said: "This is a very welcome development in improving how the emergency response to flood threats gives residents a chance to prepare.

"It is an example of how agencies and communities can and should be working together.

"Many Ormskirk residents' homes have been hit by floods on a number of occasions. Improving the warning systems for all residents is one of the ways agencies need to get smarter to better protect local communities."

Residents will be able to sign up to receive warnings by phone call, text and email.

Council warns 'dogs aren't just for Christmas'

WITH the festive season just around the corner some people may be considering buying a dog as a gift, but West Lancashire Borough Council is urging prospective pet owners that a dog is for life not just for Christmas.

The borough council has important advice for anyone considering buying a dog as a gift. A pet pooch can become a great part of any family, but owners have a lot of responsibilities.

Councillor Kevin Wright, cabinet member for health and community safety, said: "Owning a pet is a long-term commitment and shouldn't be taken lightly.

"People should remember a dog is for life, not just for Christmas. By law you must be a responsible dog owner. If you follow our advice your pet will be a friend for life, and not just a novelty gift."

Dog ownership can be expensive and your new pet could live for 15 years or more. Costs include food, insurance, toys, a collar with tag, a lead, and training classes as well as the cost of the dog.

Your dog should have a balanced diet and access to water at all times. Veterinary care is essential, including vaccinations, worming and flea treatments. Groom, and check pets' teeth, ears and nails on a regular basis for any potential problems.

A dog owner's main responsibility is to provide a loving home for their pet. They should consider that leaving the dog alone at home for long periods could result in it barking loudly, which may disturb neighbours. Dogs need to be safe, well-behaved with people and other animals. Owners should look into training their pooch.

Dogs also need time and attention. Some breeds will need more mental stimulation and exercise than others, or they may become destructive.

By law, owners must keep their dog under control at all times and prevent it from being a nuisance to others. A dog must be clearly identified, wearing a collar and tag with the name and address of its owner, and since April 6 it has been law to have your dog microchipped.

People thinking about buying a dog for Christmas should consider which dog – if any – would suit their family and lifestyle. They should ask friends about their dogs, and find out more about the breeds they like.

Potential owners should consider that some dogs can be more aggressive than others. Neutering a dog can have health, financial and behavioural benefits. Unneutered dogs can display unwanted sexual behaviour and aggression. Neutering could encourage calmer, more predictable behaviour which makes them a more suitable family pet.

Those considering buying a pedigree dog should only go to a reputable, licensed breeder and avoid puppy farms and backyard breeders. Why not log onto the RSPCA's website www.rspca.org.uk for more information. This could help you avoid being a victim of the puppy trade.

For more information about the council's role and responsibilities with regard to dogs visit www.westlancs.gov.uk/dogs.

Club trustees help military charities

William Martin, Lancashire area secretary of The Royal British Legion receives a cheque from trustee Geoff Hammond

THE trustees of the former Comrades Club site have distributed £413,197 equally between three servicemen's charities in a presentation held at the War Memorial in Ormskirk's Coronation Park.

The Royal British Legion, the armed forces charity SSAFA and the Regimental Charity of the Duke of Lancaster's Regiment have all been given £127,732 to benefit West Lancashire's servicemen, ex-servicemen and their dependants.

The Comrades Club closed in 2006 and following the sale of the site, the trustees paid off the outstanding mortgage and settled all professional fees before they used £37,921 of the net proceeds to pay accrued business rates, £100,000 via a planning obligation towards the building of two replacement bowling greens on land adjoining Ormskirk Cricket Club and donated £79,262 to West Lancashire Borough Council for the dismantling and relocating the War Memorial to Coronation Park. This included preparing the site and the recent additions of the two stone pillars with the names of the fallen from both World Wars.

The Trust was set up in 1924 when Aughton resident George Walmsley Blundell generously gifted the land. The Comrades Club was granted a licence to occupy the site subject to various conditions including financial viability, servicemen and ex-servicemen forming a certain percentage of the membership and a maximum term of 25 years after the death of the last surviving grandchild of Queen Victoria.

Trustee David Westley said: "The distribution of net proceeds from the sale of the site to established charities that must use them in accordance with the aims of the original Trust is the culmination of a long and sometimes difficult process.

"I would like to record my appreciation of the help and guidance received from solicitors Dickinson Parker Hill, and in particular the late David Forster, a partner in the firm and a fellow trustee at the time the club closed and possession of the property reverted to the Trust.

"At that point, the Trustees were faced with a very difficult situation as the property had been mortgaged in support of the club's bank borrowings but the Trust had no other assets or income to service the debt.

"A distressed sale or allowing the bank to take possession would have yielded little in the way of net sale proceeds and would not have been in the best interests of the ultimate beneficiaries.

"Through David Forster's guidance and determination the Trustees maximised the proceeds by means of a conditional sale - so completion only took place after the purchaser had obtained planning permission for the proposed redevelopment. The downside of this was the lengthy timescale."

Catering double for family firm

A FAMILY who run a catering company were thrilled to win two prestigious awards in a regional competition.

Joe Fay and his family run the GWF Catering Company, which has kitchen facilities in both Ormskirk and Liverpool.

They were awarded two titles at the 2016 England Food Awards at the recent awards ceremony in Manchester – the Northern Caterer of the Year Award and the Overall Caterer Award.

Joe said: "We now have the capacity to cater all over West Lancs and Merseyside, having recently developed our second kitchen facility.

"Not only did win the Northern Award, we also picked up the Overall Caterer award which covered the North, Midlands and South of England! Such a great achievement by our company!"

Pub flushed with success after loo award

AN ORMKIRK pub has scooped a British Toilet Association 'Loo of the Year' award!

Staff at the Court Leet in Wheatsheaf Walk were awarded the platinum star rating by inspectors after an unannounced visit.

The toilets are judged against numerous criteria, including decor and maintenance, cleanliness, accessibility, hand washing and drying equipment and overall management.

Manager Lisa Newton said: "I am delighted with the award. Staff at the pub work hard to ensure the toilets are in first-class condition at all times and it is great that this has been recognised by the inspectors."

Traffic should be stopped so we can properly honour the fallen

THE motor car has a lot to answer for.

Traffic jams (causing my bus to be late), accidents (causing all-round misery), and conniving in the demise of the polar bear.

To those I now reckon, you can add the spoiling of Remembrance Sunday at least where I live in Maghull.

Each year I walk up to the parish church along with my dog, Tina, to watch the Remembrance Day proceedings at the memoriall ychgate, dedicated to those who gave their lives in conflict.

Not many years ago, smart members of the Air Training Corps along with local Scouts, Girl Guides and the Fire Brigade formed up in ranks outside the church.

Shortly before 11am, the police closed off the roads immediately around and they all marched to the Royal British Legion less than a quarter of a mile away.

And a stirring sight they made.

Mind you, Tina, the dog who isn't worried by fireworks or even shotguns going off in her vicinity, for some reason has always taken exception to folk stamping their feet in close proximity to where she is.

One of the few times I am embarrassed by her is at ceremonies such as this, which seem to scare her.

But not that many years ago, not only were the roads near the church itself closed, but also traffic was halted on the A59 Northway dual carriageway as well, so the procession could process.

That was done away with a few years ago now, but at least the parade still took place up to this major traffic barrier.

Actually, in the days when it was indeed closed to traffic, the A59 was a major trunk artery to Preston.

It was 'de-trunked' in favour of the motorway a while ago now, but of course that didn't stop the amount of traffic on it from increasing year by year.

Anyway, as usual this year Tina and I turned up outside the church.

But now, the 'procession' had shrunk to the ATC and the war veterans (whose numbers regrettably are now much reduced), who marched all of a hundred yards or so.

Yes, it was still moving.

But not really impressive.

And until this year, Tina and I had mingled with a couple of dozen 'ordinary' citizens who had turned up like me to watch what was afoot from the opposite side of the road.

This year, and I kid you not, there was just one dog less than humans – and there were only five dogs!

I do not think people have forgotten our war heroes – over the past few weeks there have been more TV programmes dedicated to the horrors our servicemen had to endure in both world wars than you could shake sticks at.

This year though, in Maghull at least, I thought the small dedication ceremony outside the British Legion club was more moving than the 'main event' outside the parish church.

It got me wondering.

Would it really cause that much inconvenience to hold up the traffic for five minutes or so, even on a busy dual carriageway?

After all, it is on a Sunday morning, not many folk are trying to get to work or attending to urgent business surely?

And I really think (and hope) that a short delay to their car journey at 11am on one Sunday of the year would not upset them at all.

Airline bosses launch competition to design new aircraft livery

THE airline Blue Air, which has made Liverpool John Lennon Airport (LJLA) their newest European base, has launched a competition for someone to design the new livery for their 189 seat Boeing 737-800 aircraft that will be based at Liverpool next year.

Blue Air are keen to become Liverpool's airline and are already working with local organisations to help in their recruitment for up to 35 new, direct, local employees.

The 'design-a-livery' competition is another way in which the airline wants to become part of the Liverpool City Region and having shortlisted what they believe are the top three designs, Blue Air will then ask the public to vote for the winning design to make it a truly local desicion.

The Liverpool liveried aircraft will operate on Blue Air's new routes from LJLA to Rome, Milan, Hamburg and Alicante and one lucky individual who comes up with the best design, will have this recreated on the aircraft fuselage to be seen by thousands of passengers at LJLA, at airports in Europe and in the skies above Merseyside too.

As well as seeing their design appear on the aircraft, the winner of the competition will also receive two free return flights from Liverpool to any Blue Air destination.

Liverpool John Lennon Airport is working closely with Blue Air on this competition and has set up a link on the homepage of the Airport's website www.liverpoolairport.com from where budding aircraft livery designers can download an aircraft template on which to complete their design and send in their entry.

Entrants must be 18 or over and the closing date for the competition is November 30.

Robin Tudor, head of PR for Liverpool John Lennon Airport commented: "This is a fantastic opportunity for someone to have their idea for an aircraft livery become reality and to be seen by thousands of people at home and abroad.

"Blue Air really want to be a part of the City Region and for passengers to think of them as their airline. Painting their aircraft with a livery unique to their operations here at Liverpool is a great way to help achieve this."

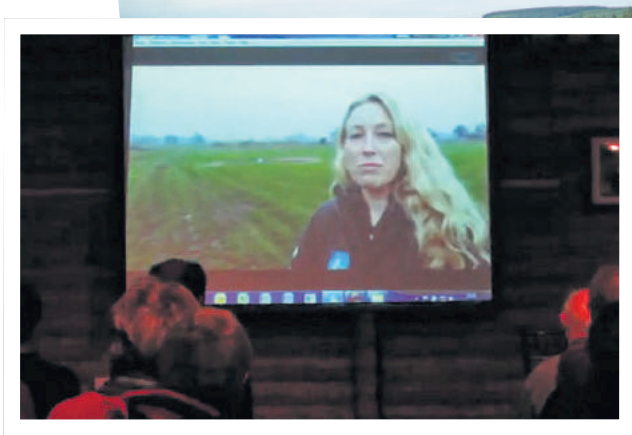
Martin Mere news



WWT and Martin Mere are currently taking part in one of the most daring conservation projects that has ever been attempted - A mission that connects wildlife, wetlands and people – from the wilderness of the arctic tundra all the way to UK.

WWT is putting a totally new spin on migration with Sacha Dench, WWT, doing an epic 7,000km journey by paramotor from the Bewick's swans arctic breeding grounds back to the UK.

WWT Martin Mere was lucky enough to do a live link to Sacha at last week's North West Bird Watching Festival to find out how she is coping 8 weeks into the expedition, the challenges she is facing and the highlights along the way – she was asked a number of questions from the sell-out crowd and told them about the expedition.

Sacha and the expedition team will be flying the Bewick's entire flyway, often at altitudes as low as 100m on a voyage that lasts as long as sixteen weeks … providing a birds eye view on the challenges facing these critically endangered birds.

They've already safely navigated the vast Russian tundra – and its polar bears – Sacha and the team continued to track the swans' progress through Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland (where she was during the live link) with Germany, Denmark, Netherlands, Belgium and France still to go.

If Sacha completes the flight from the French coast to England, she'll become the first woman to successfully cross the English Channel by paramotor. Now on the home straight, and following the Thames, Sacha will fly through central London before finishing the mammoth journey at WWT Slimbridge.

But why does Flight of the Swans matter?

Between 1995 and 2010 numbers of swans making the migration from arctic Russia to northern Europe plummeted by more than a third – from 29,000 to just 18,000.

By joining the Bewick's on their migration, Sacha and the expedition team will see for themselves just why swans are unable to survive the journey.

Through Flight of the Swans WWT will gather first-hand evidence and information that, combined with existing research, can contribute to life-saving conservation action right along the Bewick's migratory flyway. A petition has been launched to save the Bewick swan and the wetalnds they inhabit and you can sign the petition at: www.flightoftheswans.org/petition

WWT Martin Mere Wetland Centre is open every day (except Christmas Day) from 9.30am to 4.30pm during winter months and parking is free of charge. Situated off the A59, it is signposted from the M61, M58 and M6. The Centre is also accessible via the Southport to Manchester and the Liverpool to Preston line by train from Burscough Rail Stations. Visit the web site http://www.wwt.org.uk/martinmere/ to find out what's on all year round at Martin Mere and the other eight WWT Wetland Centres.

Total Eclipse of The Sun: Sefton follows West Lancs in call to stop selling paper

Report by Ollie Cowan

SEFTON Council has followed in the footsteps of West Lancs council and supported a motion calling on all retailers and vendors of newspapers in the borough to stop selling copies of The S*n.

The motion was submitted by Cllr Gordon Friel at a Full Council meeting held at Southport Town Hall and was approved with the full support of council.

It also applauded the group called 'Total Eclipse of the S*n' for their endeavours to rid Sefton of the newspaper.

Cllr Gordon Friel said: "I am delighted the motion received cross party support and we now follow in the footsteps of other local authorities and partner agencies inadopting this stance.

"What was reported in this paper after the Hillsborough tragedywas a pack of lies and we hope by supporting this motion we can give retailers the confidence to make their own choices on whether or not to sell the paper.

"Hopefully as more and more retailers choose to stop stocking and selling this paper, it will simply disappear from Merseyside."

Cllr Ian Maher, Labour Leader at Sefton Council, added: "I applaud this motion and everything it stands for.

"As an area, Sefton suffered terribly with the loss of many lives following the Hillsborough tragedy and some of those wounds will never heal.

"Asking retailers and vendors in the borough to stop selling The S*n newspaper lends our continuous support to all the Hillsborough families and shows we will never forgive or forget what was published."

Southport councillor Sue McGuire added: “We are delighted and proud to support this motion.

“There were some passionate and very heartfelt speeches in support.”

West Lancashire Borough Council supported a similar motion last month; prompting calls from residents in Sefton to follow suit.

The motion in West Lancs was first put forward by Digmoor ward Labour councillor, Kevin Wilkie, who was a survivor of the Hillsborough disaster.

Lower Alt Wind farm proposals rejected

PLANS to build a huge wind farm in Lower Altcar have been rejected by West Lancashire Borough Council.

An application was put forward to build wind turbines across a large area of farmland near Lydiate and involved plans to build 12 turbines, a wind monitoring station, an on site substation, underground cables and access tracks in Lower Alt.

Earlier proposals were put forward by Coriolis Energy in 2013 when the company submitted plans to build 24 turbines, but were unsuccessful after objections from residents.

The company then submitted a revised scheme and reduced the number of turbines to 12, however this was rejected at last weeks meeting (November 11), much to the delight of many residents.

As reported in the Champion previously, many objectors were concerned about the loss of greenbelt land, concerns over the impact on protected sites such as Martin Mere and the Simonswood Moss pink–footed goose roost along with damage to the general landscape.

It was also claimed that the wind farm could affect the micro light strip at Ince Blundell and the flight path to RAF Woodvale as well as helicopters landing at Altcar Camp.

Report by Louisa Austin

In council documents outlining the objection it is stated that: "The proposed development constitutes inappropriate development within the green belt which would be harmful to the green belt," and that the proposal conflicts with several planning policies and frameworks set up to protect the environment, wildlife and conservation.

Councillor Sam Currie, said: "I am relieved and delighted that this application was finally refused and that residents in both West Lancashire and Sefton have been freed from the threat that has been hanging over them for the past couple of years.

Horrendous Impact

"If the application had been approved then the massive wind farm would've had a horrendous impact on homes, farming, leisure activities and the abundant wildlife.

"This large area of greenbelt land is really special and fully deserves the considerable protection it is afforded by the West Lancashire Local Plan."

Cllr. Currie, added: "Notwithstanding the very strong recommendation for refusal by the Borough Planner, I was concerned when the Application was deferred at the October's Meeting by Labour who used their majority on the Planning Committee.

"I am glad that they saw sense and listen to the strong arguments put forward by my fellow Aughton & Downholland Ward Councillors, David Westley and David O'Toole."

Coriolis Energy have stated that they they chose Lower Altcar because the area was considered likely to have a suitable wind speed, comprises a large area of land far enough away from houses to support a wind farm, the site is accessible for wind turbine delivery vehicles and that the site has also been identified within West Lancashire Borough Council's Local Plan as the most suitable for wind energy within the district.

Project manager for the wind farm Trevor Hunter said:

"We are disappointed that the Lower Alt wind farm proposal was rejected by West Lancashire Borough Council and that the substantial environmental and other benefits of the project were overlooked.

"If built, the Lower Alt Wind Farm would utilise a free and clean source of energy, helping in the fight against climate change.

"The wind turbines would help Lancashire and the north-west generate more home grown electricity, reducing the reliance on imported and domestically sourced fossil fuels.

"Although West Lancashire has challenging targets to deliver renewable energy, principally anticipated to come from onshore wind, no other similar schemes have come forward to date.

"Simply, if these targets and the challenge of avoiding dangerous climate change are to be met, projects like this need to be given approval.

"The Lower Alt project would help bring about benefits to local businesses and if built local people would receive an annual community fund and potentially the opportunity to own a share in the wind farm.

"Coriolis will now review its options."

The story of our steaks and the way we cook them, locally sourced 28 Day Matured British Beef specially cooked in the Inka Oven which is an enclosed Bar-B-Que and because of this the natural sugars within the meat itself does not caramelise in the same way as it would within a pan.

Your Steak is served with the traditional bar marks and has a nice red hue which tends to make the steak look undercooked when in fact it's the wood smoking effect that gives it it's unique flavour from the Charcoals of the Inka.

Parents create new youth club

A GROUP of parents are set to launch a new youth club in Haskayne.

The Haskayne Youth Club will be based at the former changing rooms and pavilion building on School Lane in the village which was refurbished earlier this year after the parish councila ecured a £10,000 National Lottery grant. Local entrepreneur Lynsey Blane has joined forces with a group of friends on the project and they hope to open it early next year.

Lynsey was featured in the Champion in September when she set up a monthly market in Ormskirk with her husband. The mum-of-one had previously undergone life-saving surgery to remove a brain tumour. She will now work on the project with Lucy Costello, Mike Wainwright and Rachel Lucas, whose children all go to Downholland Haskayne Primary School and Ormskirk School.

Lynsey is appealing for volunteers to help out one or two nights a month and for donations of equipment.

She said: "This project would not be happenning without the wonderful clerk of Downholland Haskayne Parish Council securing a Lottery Grant for £10,000. She put a lot of work into securing this grant, and we really appreciate her efforts.

To volunteer or donate equipment email Youthclub16@yahoo.com

Safety group praised after a drop in Bonfire bad behaviour

WEST Lancashire's Community Safety Partnership have been praised for the activities they arranged to help to reduce the amount of anti-social behaviour incidents during the Bonfire Period.

Report by Danielle Thompson

Historically in West Lancashire the bonfire period meant that both Lancashire Fire and Rescue and Lancashire Constabulary dealt with large numbers of incidents. Anti-social behaviour, injuries and localised fires were extremely common and this prompted the Community Safety Partnership to run annual activities aimed at reducing the impact on residents.

A lot of work goes into planning the events, which encourage young people to take part on positive activities during the bonfire period.

Each year the Go4It event runs at Skelmersdale Fire Station. This year young people could show off their football skills in the penalty shootout and beat the goalie games. They could also test their nerve on a simulator game of the television show Wipe Out, and have a go at the fun inflatable boxing. There were also two funfair stalls, and face-painting and nail art organised by Lancashire County Council's Wellbeing, Prevention and Early Help Service, who had staff members supporting the event.

Around 200 young people attended the events over the two nights and all the activities were extremely popular.

Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service has reported that they had low numbers of call-outs each night and the police have also agreed that the number of incidents was low, with excellent feedback from the community.

The Community Safety and Environmental Enforcement have said they did a lot of proactive work in the build-up to the bonfire period removing over 100 tons of rubbish and combustible materials.

The council also had staff out removing bonfires from unauthorised sites before Bonfire night and also the day after. They have also continued to remove bonfire waste as part of their normal routine.

Cllr Kevin Wright, cabinet member for health and community safety said "I am extremely pleased with the success of these events as they show what excellent value for money the Community Safety Partnership provides with the council and other services working together.

"Reducing the numbers of incidents partner agencies have to deal with is a key objective for this initiative. At the same time it looks like a large number of local people enjoyed themselves safely."

Dave Tilleray, chairman of West Lancashire Borough Council Community Safety Partnership, said: "The Partnership has worked extremely well to ensure that local people were safe on Bonfire Night. We will continue to work together in future years to protect local people."

Sgt Andrew Bramhall, of Skelmersdale Police, said: "The Community Safety Partnership is an invaluable service and the proactive work of members helped to reduce the number of emergency incidents during Bonfire Night.

Matthew Hamer, Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service station manager for West Lancashire, said: "Working with our community safety partners has proved a great success in ensuring Bonfire Night passed peacefully."

Singers say farewell to their musical director

SINGERS from SING4FUN!, an adults only community choir based in Parbold, have bid a fond farewell to their first musical director, Graham Fairbairn and welcomed Nathan Blackburn as their new MD.

Graham (pictured left) has been leading the group since it started in January 2015.

Nathan is already an established musical director with the St Helens Male Voice Choir and SING4FUN! look forward to his leadership, building on the foundations Graham has made and ensuring continued success for the group.

Gill Louttit, one of the group's founder members said: "We all owe Graham a great deal, leading us from our very first meeting and building us into the group we are today."

She went on: "We have come such a long way thanks to Graham and to his skill and enthusiasm, which has enabled us to progress to the standard we are now."

SING4FUN! rehearses every Monday evening during school term times, at Our Lady & All Saints Primary School in Parbold. Over the past 18 months, members have performed at local festivals and events and regularly sing at the local care homes in Parbold.

SING4FUN! now has a strong core membership of over 40 men and women from Parbold, Wrightington, Standish, Skelmersdale and Ormskirk. New members are welcome. The first session for new members is free.

Spain's number one pianist praises borough venue

Interview by Henry James

SPAIN'S number one concert pianist could be heard at the Arena Auditorium at Parbold Village Hall on Saturday night (November 19).

Javier Perianes has played at some of the world's most famous venues such as Carnegie Hall in New York, so it was a coup for Douglas Music to book him to play in West Lancashire.

He spoke to the Champion about the benefits of playing in an intimate venue: "In a smaller venue you can have a closer relationship with the audience. You can also talk to them about what you are playing. It is not possible to do this at venues such as Carnegie Hall because there are thousands of people there. I think some performances in smaller venues can go straight to the heart. You also don't have to project the sound to the end of the hall.

"However the venue is not the most important aspect, the music is. If you are playing in a very small hall, or a famous concert hall in London, New York, Berlin, or Madrid your main concern is not with the city, the amount of people that are listening to you, or even with the hall, it is with the music that you are performing."

The concert Perianes gave included Schubert's much-loved final sonata, and works by Claude Debussy called Preludes and Manuel De Falla's Fantasia Baetica, which is about Andalusia. Perianes commented: "The first half was dedicated to Schubert's music and included his last piano sonata, which is one of the most beautiful in the repertoire for a pianist. It is a huge piece of music and it is one of his last works before he died. The music evokes different moods and it is very difficult to play.

Javier Perianes

"In the second half we explored the relationship between Spanish and French music through the work by Debussy and Manuel De Fella.

"When you design a recital, you need the audience to make a beautiful trip with you."

During his visit the pianist was also complimentary of Parbold's Steinway Model D Concert Grand Piano, which was bought for the benefit of the local community. He added: "The sound that comes from it is very beautiful."

After Parbold, Javier will be touring North and South America next year which will include: New York, San Francisco, and Washington. The end of the tour will be at the Teatro Colon, which is among the best concert venues in the world.

National treasure at theatre

THERE is a chance to see a national treasure at Southport theatre this Saturday (November 26) at 7pm.

Ken Dodd, who is celebrating 60 years of entertaining audiences, is bringing his Ken Dodd's Happiness Show to the town.

During the night he will tell non-stop gags and sing a selection of songs presented in Dodd's unique and varied style: Everything from ballads to grand opera.

He became a professional entertainer in 1954 and just a little more than 10 years later he made his debut at the famous London Palladium – where he enjoyed an unprecedented record breaking 42 week sell-out season.

In 1965 he replaced his fellow Merseysiders The Beatles (then at the peak of their popularity) from the No.1 spot in the pop charts with Tears and today it proudly occupies 10th position in the Top 20 best-selling records of all time.

His string of hits includes Love Is Like A Violin and his signature tune Happiness. Singing also plays a prominent part in his stage act. His vocal range includes everything from the classics to pop music and even grand opera.

But it is his work as a comedian that stamps Dodd out as a showbiz legend.

Indeed, away from his hectic touring schedule, Ken became recipient of the prestigious Living Legend award from The British Comedy Society. He also received a Lifetime Achievement Award in the British Comedy Awards.

Orchestra promising a spectacular concert

THE members of Southport Orchestra are promising a spectacular Christmas Concert at Emmanuel Church, Cambridge Road, Southport, on Saturday, December 3 at 7.30pm.

This Christmas Concert will be a rare performance by the Town's Orchestra to celebrate the festive season and will anticipate the forthcoming festivities by a programme of especially selected music.

It is expected that the Church will be filled to capacity for this event, therefore to prevent any disappointment it is recommended that tickets be secured in plenty of time beforehand.

At the event there will be a guest performance by the Southport Bach Choir.

As usual the Orchestra will be under the baton of its popular musical director, Jeff Rimmer who works hard to make the concerts the success they are, while ensuring that the players also garner much deserved satisfaction for their efforts.

Jeff again will be assisted by the leader Mel Foster.

Tickets can be obtained from the Christian Book Centre, Wesley Street, Southport. For more information call 01704 54226.

Buy a Porche 944 before they take on the Ford Capri's cult following

Life On Cars
DAVID SIMISTER
www.lifeoncars.co.uk

The Porsche 944 now represents fantastic value for money compared to the Ford Capri

THEY'RE three loveable champions of everything we love about driving, and after an undeserved spell in the doldrums they're winning over just about anyone who gives them a try.

But I'm not talking about The Grand Tour – that's next week's issue, given that if I waited until Top Gear's second episode before calling a verdict the sporting thing would be to afford Amazon's car blockbuster the same courtesy. No, I'm on about the three performance hits that powered Porsche's bottom line right through the Eighties and early Nineties – the 924, 944 and 968.

You might have noticed that with it being 40 years since the 924's introduction they've had a rather high profile lately, particularly at Porsche's stand at the NEC Classic Motor Show a few weeks back. But the wider world hasn't noticed, because for what I can only put down to an overwhelming sense of collective nostalgia just about everyone would rather have a Ford Capri instead.

Which has left a bit of a weird scenario for anyone thinking of buying either. In Thatcher's Britain the faster, better engineered Porsche 944 cost comfortably more than Ford's finest Capri at the time, the 2.8 Injection. But flick through the classifieds these days and it's the reverse.

Fancy a 944 (and if you love cars, who wouldn't)? You're talking five grand for a decent 2.5-litre model or – if you're lucky – the wonderful S2 version. Hunt for a Capri 2.8 Injection – and you want the V6 to have Porsche-troubling performance – and it'll be at least eight grand for a good one, with the Brooklands and Tickford versions setting you back considerably more.

The only front-engined Porsches that have soared to the same level are the 944 Turbo and the raucous 968 Club Sport, both because they're hardcore driver favourites with cult followings.

I like the Ford Capri, but would I buy one over a 944? Surely a sports car honed for driving perfection by the same chaps behind the 911 is a better buy than a two-door throwback distantly related to the Cortina MkII and trading largely on its Bodie and Doyle connections? While the rest of the world spends increasingly silly amounts of money on the Capri I'd urge you to get behind the wheel of the Porsche 944 while it's still affordable. It's already starting to go up in price, but unlike the Capri it's been undervalued for years and is the now the sort of bargain you'd normally find clogging up chilly high streets in January. It won't be long before everyone else cottons on.

Just think – you could use the three grand saving on a Capri to watch The Grand Tour for about the next twenty years.

Linnets anchored to bottom of table after home defeat

Burscough 0
Colwyn Bay 3

BURSCOUGH remain bottom of the table after conceding three at home.

The Linnets were up against Colwyn Bay, who hadn't won a match in their last seven fixtures, but came away with all three points.

The away side opened the scoring on 27 minutes when Jack Phillips cut in from the left and fired a stunning effort into the top corner from 25 yards out.

They doubled their lead midday through the second half when Louis Corrigan fired in from close range.

All three points were wrapped up in added time when Danny Andrews found the net against the run of play.

Next up for Burscough is a trip to Kendal Town on Saturday.

Benito could be latest of Lawson's players to be Football League bound

Report by Neil Leatherbarrow

SKELMERSDALE midfielder Benito Lowe could be the latest youngster to make the step up to the Football League with rumoured interest from both Portsmouth and Fleetwood Town.

The talented 18-year-old midfielder has flourished under manager Tommy Lawson, who will be worried at the prospect of losing him but also pleased for his future.

Benito was with Sheffield United's academy before being released and joining Curzon Ashton where he didn't get the opportunities he hoped.

Lawson snapped him up during the summer and he has flourished under Lawson's tutelage.

If Benito moved on to a Football League club he would be the second player in three months to make the same move and the fourth in three years.

It was only in September that young midfielder Tony Donaldson joined Doncaster Rovers and 18 months ago Ben Tollitt went to Portsmouth, where he has made 12 league appearances scoring one league goal.

When asked about the prospects of a move Tommy Lawson said: "Naturally I don't want to lose my most promising players, but it is great to see players we have developed here at Skem go on to make full-time professionals in the Football League.

"It gives the staff and the players a big motivation to see them do well and to think they were at Skem and we helped them get their" Skelmersdale are away to Grantham Town on Saturday, November 26, a fixture that replaces a home game against Blyth Spartans that will be rearranged.

Skelmersdale play Frickley next week when the West Yorkshiremen visit the Uretek Stadium on Tuesday, November 30 for a 7.45pm kick off. Last night's scheduled league match at Frickley was postponed.

Trials for the Skelmersdale United Academy take place on Thursday, November 24 at Stormy Corner at 6pm. For more information, call 07879 994 718.

West Lancashire Boys are champions of Lancashire

WEST Lancashire District Boys Under 11's football team are the Lancashire seven a side champions for 2016/17.

The group is made up of players from schools right across West Lancashire and this is the first time they have won the seven a side competition.

They competed against district teams from Preston, Lancaster, Blackburn, Pendle and Burnley, beating Burnley in the final on penalties as neither side could find the breakthrough goal.

A spokesman for the team said: "The boys should be extremely proud of their efforts as a team. The player of the tournament on the day was Adam H."
